We bopo the time may soon come when the work-bench may be thought as necessary an appliance of the solod-time-linuored doctrines that has any bearing upon the present state of public affairs; the needful limitations of the Federal power; the unimpaired religible of the States; the money of the Coustitution, expressed in gold and aliver, and paper convertible in coolin upon demand; the free education of the people at home; no alimptoary laws; no political secretication of the people at home; no not convenient, conomically administrated, can spend, and a tariffield upon the futuries of life excensively for public purposes. l began to pale before a splender in the cast, and then the quivering footsteps of the dawn came rushing across the new born blue and shook them from their places. Quieter and more quiet grew the sen-quiet as the soft mists that brooded on her bosom and covered up her troubling, as the illusive wreaths of alcep brood upon and cover up a pain racked mind, causing it to forget its sorrow. From the east to the west sped the angels of the dawn, from sea to sea, from momtain top to mountain top, seattering light with both their hands. On they sped out of the darkness, perfect, glorious, like spirits of the just breaking from the tomb; on, over the quiet sea, over the low coast line, and the awamps beyond, and the unountains beyond them; over those who sheld in good; over the living and the dead; over the wide world and all thet breathes or has hreathed thereon.

It was a wonderfully beautiful sight, and yet sad, perhaps from the very excess of its leastly. The arising sunt the setting sunf there we have the symbol and the types, yes, and the earthly beginning and the day. And on that merning this came home to me with a peculiar force. The sun that arose to day for us had set has night for eighteen of our fellow voyngers—had set forever for eighteen whom we know!

The dhow had gone down with them; they were tessing about now among the rocke and res weed, so much hums night or lost, and then they were tessing about now among the rocke and res weed, so much humson drift on the great occan of death! And we four were saved! But one day a sunrise will coma when we shall be among those who roe lost, and then others will watch those glorious reys, and grow sad' in the midst of beauty and dream of death in the full glow of arising life. For this is the lot of man.
